Repetitive Behaviour

Wednesday 24th January 2018

Peter Corr

Children and young people with autism often display repetitive behaviours some of which can be challenging. This session led by Peter Corr from Inspire will explore the most effective ways to manage specific behaviours.

Education, Health & Care Plans

Wednesday 31st January 2018

Elaine Westwood

This workshop will help parents to understand Education, Health and Care Plans and be best prepared to contribute effectively to the development of their child's plan.

Adolescence and Puberty

Wednesday 14th February 2018

Caroline Stevens & Louise Mason

Adolescence can be a difficult time for all young people, but can be even more challenging for those with autism. This session will seek to support parents as they support their children through this important time.

eSafety

Wednesday 14th March 2018

Patrick Flynn

The internet offers our children many opportunities for learning but the world wide web also poses many dangers. This session therefore will inform parents so that they can help their children use the internet safely.

Supporting Sensory Needs

Wednesday 28th March 2018

Roz Roscoe

Children with autism often need support with their sensory needs. This session will focus on how parents and carers can support their children by increasing your understanding and sharing strategies.
